OpenTable Mobile Payments March into Washington

Pay with OpenTable launches in the DC Metro Area and will be available in a total of 20 U.S. cities before year end

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14, 2014 /PRNewswire/ -- OpenTable, the world's leading provider of online restaurant reservations and part of The Priceline Group (NASDAQ: PCLN), today announced that Pay with OpenTable is now available in the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area.

To pay with OpenTable, diners who book at participating restaurants simply add a credit card in the OpenTable iPhone app before they dine and can then view and pay their check with a few taps. There's no separate app to download; no codes to enter; and no scanning or barcodes involved. Diners who Pay with OpenTable simply get up and go whenever they're ready.

"The convenience and benefits that our diners and restaurant customers enjoy today are just the beginning of the value we can deliver as a company focused more broadly on the experience of dining out," said Matt Roberts, Chief Executive Officer of OpenTable. "Just as we solved the pain of booking a reservation, we have a tremendous opportunity to solve the pain of settling the check, and Washington, D.C. is a natural place to demonstrate this."

In addition to Washington, D.C., Pay with OpenTable is currently available in New York City and San Francisco. OpenTable plans to roll out the feature across the nation by introducing it to a total of 20 cities before year end.
