Pay with OpenTable Now Available for Android

Android users can now use their OpenTable app to settle the check

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24, 2015 /PRNewswire/ -- OpenTable, the world's leading provider of online restaurant reservations and part of The Priceline Group (NASDAQ: PCLN), today announced that its Pay with OpenTable mobile payments feature is now available for Android.

To pay with OpenTable, diners who book at participating restaurants simply add a credit card in the OpenTable Android app before they dine and can then view and pay their check with a few taps. There's no separate app to download; no codes to enter; and no scanning or barcodes involved. Diners who pay with OpenTable simply get up and go whenever they're ready.

"Millions of diners use our apps to discover and book the perfect table," said Jocelyn Mangan, OpenTable Senior Vice President, Product Management. "We're excited to provide Android users with a payment experience that is intuitive and integrated into the OpenTable app they know and love."

Pay with OpenTable is currently available in select cities and restaurants across the U.S. To learn more about OpenTable mobile payments, watch "Life's too short to wait for the check" and visit <http://pay.opentable.com/> to view the current list of participating restaurants.
