OpenTable Celebrates the 2008 Michelin Starred Restaurants in the San Francisco Bay Area and Wine Country

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (October 22, 2007) — OpenTable, Inc. (www.opentable.com), the leading provider of free, online reservations for diners and guest management systems for restaurants, celebrates the restaurants awarded Michelin stars in the second annual Michelin Guide San Francisco, Bay Area & Wine Country, released today.

Each star-rated restaurant meets Michelin's high standards for culinary excellence. OpenTable is proud to include more than 85% of the 2008 San Francisco-based starred restaurants, along with a full range of dining options, in its OpenTable® online reservations network. Online reservations are available at www.michelinguide.com or www.opentable.com.

"The Michelin Guide has become an international benchmark for gourmet dining, and we are proud that most of today's Michelin star recipients have chosen OpenTable as their partner for real-time online reservations," said Jeff Jordan, OpenTable chief executive officer. "The San Francisco Bay Area and Wine Country is recognized worldwide as a unique travel destination for food and wine lovers. Michelin and OpenTable make it easy for tourists and locals to find and book reservations at distinctive restaurants for a memorable dining experience."

About Michelin Guides

For more than a century, Michelin Guides have helped travelers enjoy better mobility by offering qualified restaurant and hotel recommendations throughout Europe. Now representing 17 countries and two continents, the collection of 22 Michelin Guides includes more than 45,000 addresses. Its team of highly trained inspectors visits establishments anonymously, applying Michelin's international standards for quality across many categories.

In North America, the company has introduced Michelin Guides for New York City and San Francisco, Bay Area & Wine Country, with plans to publish 2008 guides to Los Angeles and Las Vegas. Michelin has also announced that it will introduce the Michelin Guide to Tokyo, Japan. For more information, visit www.michelinguide.com.
